High Schools under the control of the Municipalities have been so far opened in the following towns:-
(1) Doddaballapur (2) Sagar (3) Holenarsipur (4) Malavalli and Chintamani

The vacancies that occurred in the Municipal High School Doddaballapur were duly reported to the C. R. B. Office for being advertised in the Gazette in the usual course.

Vide linked file (C)

The vacancies that occurred in the Municipal High School at Holenarsipur were advertised in the first instance independently without consulting the CRB. When the irregularity was pointed out, the list of vacancies in the High School was duly forwarded to this Office and the same were advertised in the CRB notification

Vide linked file (B)

The vacancies that occurred in the Municipal High Schools at Chintamani and Malavalli were advertised without consulting the C. R. B. in some local papers. When this irregularity was pointed out, the Presidents of both the schools' Committees have intimated that the institutions are outside the scope of C. R. B rules.

These High Schools started by the Municipalities and Local Boards are in receipt of grants from Government

WD 01684—GPB—30,000—20-4-29

From the fact that these are grant-in-aid institutions, it cannot be concluded that they are entirely private institutions not subject to the rules of recruitment framed by Government. These institutions are under the control of either Municipalities or District Boards, all of which are brought within the scope of CRB rules as per G.Os Nos 291-300 CRB 1-27-1 dated 23rd July 1927 and No 7292-99 C.R.B dated 26th March 1929 (Vide sub-sections (c) and (e) of para 16 of Manual of Recruitment Rules. When the Municipalities and District Boards themselves are within the scope of CRB rules, it is not clear how the contention of the Presidents of only Two High School Committees (of Chintamani & Malavalli) ~~that the institutions, managed by the Local Boards, are outside the scope of CRB rules~~, can stand, especially in view of the fact that the Presidents of the other Two High School committees (of Doddaballapur and Holenarsipur) have agreed to bring the ~~High Schools~~ institutions ~~under~~ within the scope of CRB rules.

Even if these High Schools are considered as entirely Municipal, they cannot escape coming under the purview of the C R B Rules. The situation will not be changed by the fact that they are in receipt of some grant-

OUR BELOVED Highness's Birthday.

(An observer writes;—)

The Kunigal town's people witnessed an hitherto unprecedented gathering on the 7th instant when H H The Maharaja's photo profusely garlanded and carried in a grandly decked palanquin was taken in procession round the town with band playing on. The Amildar President with the Municipal Members and local officers with a loyal gathering of the public and school-children went along with the procession commencing from the Taluk Office at about 9 a. m. The procession took about two hours to return after going round different parts of the town. A royal salute of forty seven rounds were fired on the occasion. After return, the usual Mangalarthi and Raja Asirvadam were offered and flowers and pan supari distributed. The school children were sumptuously treated with sweets.

In the evening the school children were led on to sports after which distribution of prizes and sweets took place.

This occasion seems to be the first of the kind in the spontaneous exhibition of the loyalty of the citizens towards their beloved Highness. Our enthusiastic Amildar Mr B P Saraf and City Fathers evinced very keen interest in conducting the affairs of this joyous and loyal function.

FRIDAY, 13TH JUNE 1930.

The Conditions of the Problem.

THERE is no part of the Report of the Statutory Commission which one would consider of so much importance as the chapter which is devoted to the Conditions of the Problem, and especially that portion of it which gives a picture of contemporary India in its non-political aspects. Because at times like the present, it is easy to slide out of perspective; far too easy to be impressed by the surface features when they are so spectacular, and to take little account of the quieter depths because they are so unobtrusive. Too often is it the case that the inquirer, and especially when it happens to be one from another country, is carried away by those features which strike the eye, or are specially designed to hold the attention; and to lose sight of the basic facts. From time to time, well meaning members of Parliament have and carried home pictures of this country gathered within the space of one or two months and made up mostly from what they observe in cities and centres of political activity. Correspondents of foreign papers, war correspondents they ought to be called now, come and cable home accounts of what they gather in these "war zones." All that may be good copy for the press, good politics perhaps, but when a constitution is about to be framed for a country of some three hundred millions who have little to do with cities and political activities and war zones, it is hopelessly inadequate. When the Commission therefore open their Report with an account of the country, its vast population its races and religions, and the life and outlook of townsman and ryot, they are not trying merely to provide a picturesque frame-work for it, but something which is of exceeding value to what follows. Something, which is of far more evidentiary value than the statements of this and that political organisation which spoke before the Commission, or did not choose to speak. And where a Parliament is concerned, the knowledge of whose members of this country is for the most part either vicarious or negligible, such an account is in fact a first essential; for the Report is primarily intended for them and it is on that they will base whatever pronouncements they have to make. That the Commission have discharged this duty conscientiously is clear from the opening chapters. Nowhere do they portray a truer picture of the country than when they say of that class which forms eighty per cent of its population: "any quickening of general political judgment, any widening of rural horizons beyond the traditional and engrossing interest of weather and water and crops and cattle, with a round of festivals and fairs and family ceremonies and dread of famine and flood any such change from these immemorial preoccupations of the average Indian villager is bound to come very slowly indeed." Nor again when they say "the ordinary cultivator on his tiny plot is still a man of few resources with small means for meeting his limited needs-usually illiterate though not on that account necessarily wanting in shrewdness, with an outlook confined by tradition and environment, and needing above all things that those who consider his future as a citizen should understand something of his life as a man." Nowhere indeed, we should say, does the Report speak a profounder truth than here when it says that "those who consider his future as a citizen should understand something of life as a man." Such a picture might not indeed accord with the views of the small fraction of the politically minded; but when the Statutory Commission propose a constitution, they do not do it merely to suit the few thousands or the few hundreds of thousands of the politically minded, but one under which the vast multitudes of villagers and ryots have to live and have their future. What matters is not how any contitutional changes might affect the few dozens of cities which hold the stage, but how it does the five hundred thousand villages. It makes little difference therefore, as we have said before, what Liberals will agree to or Congressmen will not; what the moderate think or the extremists do not think. It is of far or, if they do not think about it, it is all the more necessary that the commission should do it for them. It might be that Immediate Dominion status would be the very best thing that could happen to them; it might be that complete Independence would be even better; but whether that is so or not must be decided only after due account is taken of the vast multitudes who have to live under those new conditions. It speaks volumes for the scrupulous fairness which the Commission have brought to bear on the inquiry, when in circumstances such as these, they can still say: "It would be a profound error to allow geographical dimensions or statistics of population or complexities of religion and caste and language to belittle the significance of what is called 'the Indian Nationalist movement.' Let it certainly have its proper significance, little or large; but it would be a profounder error to give less significance or none to those others into whose life "movements" of any kind do not enter.

Sir,

With reference to your office letter NO.6011, dated 17 th June 1930, stating that the advertisement of the posts of two assistant masters for the Municipal High School, Chintamani, in the " Bangalore Times" is opposed to the C.R.B. Rules, I have the honour to enclose herewith a copy of the resolution on the subject by the High School Committee which met on 21-6-30.

The term "Municipal" is only a courtesy title and the institution is an aided one run and managed by a committee which is constituted by the Government and in which not only the Municipal Council but the District Board and the Government are ~~xxpxx~~ represented. The liabilities of the Municipality are specific. Hence the institution is outside the C.R.B.Rules.

Order.

There have been some recent instances of vacancies arising in certain Municipal Aided High Schools having been published in some of the local newspapers and the Mysore Gazette without consulting the Central Recruitment Board. On enquiry, the authorities of the Schools under reference have stated that they are aided institutions outside the C.R.B. Rules. Government however observe that these aided institutions have been started on the initiative of local Municipal Councils and on the recommendation of the Department of Public Instruction. They are maintained out of Municipal and District Board funds, supplemented by substantial contributions from Government. The management of these institutions is vested in Committees consisting of the Deputy Commissioner of the District and representatives of the Municipality, and the District Board concerned, and the Department of Public Instruction. The curricula of studies and the equipment of these High Schools are in accordance with the standards prescribed by the Department (of Public Instruction).

Having regard to these circumstances, Government consider that the establishments of ~~all~~ the Municipal aided High Schools should be subject to the same Rules of Recruitment as are in force in the case of Government Educational Institutions. Government therefore direct that all vacancies occurring in these aided institutions be filled up in strict conformity with the said rules.
